THE VILLAGE BLACKSMITH.

Under a spreading chestnut tree
The village blacksmith stands,
And in a brimming basin he
Would wash his brawny hands;
But something else than water clean
His sooty palm demands.

Week in, week out, from morn till night,
He might have rubbed, I trow,
Had I not given him a cake
Of IVORY SOAP, when, lo!
Full soon those honest hands of his
Were spotless as the snow.

And when the soap escaped his grasp,
With wonder he did note
That on the water's surface dark
The cleansing bar did float,
As swims upon a turbid lake
A pearl white fairy boat.

"Thanks, thanks," said he, "my worthy friend,
For this which thou hast brought;
No village blacksmith should forget
The facts this Ivory Soap has taught;
For hands like mine it is the best
That can be found or bought."

A WORD OF WARNING.

The Little Girl's Warts.

A little girl in Auburn whose ways are altogether lovely became recently, after the manner of childhood, very much interested in those epidermic excrescences on her brother's hand known familiarly as warts, and she thought that she would be happy if she could be blessed with some just like them. Her mother had taught her to pray for what she wanted, and the little damsel of her own accord prayed one night for warts. They came—whether in answer to petition or by excessive familiarity with her little brother's beauty marks is not known, but they came. As time passed the little one's views on warts changed. She no longer thought they were handsome or nice and she took the same remedy to remove them, viz., prayer. It proved less efficacious in this direction than in the other, and after some vain petitioning she presented her tearful face at her mother's side one day recently, and with determination born of disappointment said that she would never make another prayer. "Why," said her mother, "you prayed for the warts and they came. God only sent you what you asked for. Why should you complain?" The little maid looked thoughtfully up for a moment and then replied with this direct statement: "I will tell you why, mamma. When I asked God for warts I didn't know they were not nice and God did, so there!" It settled the discussion.—Lewiston Journal

THREE DAYS OF GLORY.

Notes on the Washington Inauguration Centennial.

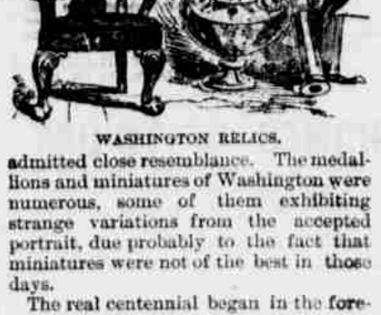
RELICS AND REPRESENTATIONS.

New York's Proudest Day—Over Half a Million People Come from Afar—Another Half Million from the Near Vicinity—Battle Relics, Washington Pictures and Other Memorials—The Military Parade, Industrial Show, Banquet and Dance.

The Washington centennial is a thing of the past. For three days the city of New York was in a continuous blaze of glory and patriotism, and the general verdict is that all went well. The paraders have returned to their homes, the smoke of the illuminations has cleared away, the decorations are mostly removed, patriotism has been wonderfully revivified and now we shall have no more centennials—that is, none of such momentous importance—till 1976. Out of the bewildering variety of three days' display only a few points can be noted in this brief report.

Aside from the main centennial display, many interesting exhibits preceded and followed the principal day, of which the most interesting was the centennial loan exhibition at the Metropolitan Opera house, to which articles were sent from all sections of the United States. It gave opportunity to tens of thousands of visitors to see the relics, which consisted largely of busts, medallions, portraits, specimens of the silverware of the period, old letters, magazines and papers and a great many other objects illustrating the art of the Eighteenth century and the daily life of the great men of the revolutionary era. Of course portraits of Washington were the chief attraction and some were here exhibited to the public for the first time.

The Peales, the Trumbulls, the Stuarts and other portraits which have made the features of Washington familiar to Americans were, of course, numerous, and by an arrangement according to the age at which they were taken, the observer gained a very accurate view of the changes. Though John Trumbull painted him in military guise and Gilbert Stuart in statesman's attire, the difference is very slight, but in the two Peale portraits there is quite a variation, especially in the lines about the mouth, confirming the statement that as the great hero grew older his mouth assumed a rigid or compressed appearance. Of the several busts exhibited, that made by Ceracchi at Philadelphia in 1795 is the one most familiar to the people, being used as the standard on account of its admitted close resemblance. The medallions and miniatures of Washington were numerous, some of them exhibiting strange variations from the accepted portrait, due probably to the fact that miniatures were not of the best in those days.



WASHINGTON RELICS.

The real centennial began in the forenoon of Monday, April 29, with the grandest naval display ever witnessed in American waters. Some 200 large vessels, besides many yachts and tugs, took part, the steamers and such others as could be handled with perfect safety first passing up the Brooklyn side of East river to the upper end of the city, then turning and passing down the New York side and around to the Hudson, while the great bridge, both shores and all the convenient housetops on both shores were crowded by a million observers. All the fronts of both cities blazed in red, white and blue, and the vast crowd of spectators often broke into enthusiastic applause. The vessels in regular line extended over a distance of fourteen miles, and the admirable arrangement for the parade was largely the design of Fleet Captain D. M. Munger. In the first squadron many of the vessels carried the flags of the different states, as the officials and commissioners of those states were on board; but by direction of Admiral Porter, in general command, the yachts were moored in the harbor, as there was not room for them to maneuver in East river.

All this was merely incidental to the formal reception of President Harrison and those with him, which of course could not be witnessed by the general public. Governor Hill, with the commissioners of the several states, the general committee on the centennial, and others, went out to meet the president's steamer on its way from Elizabethport, N. J. There the president and party took the steamer prepared for him, which moved into the upper bay and passed through the fleets moored to receive and salute him.

The scene was sublime beyond the power of language to describe. All the lovely expanse stretching south, southeast and southwest from the Battery was ablaze with brilliant colors, beautifully softened and harmonized by the snowy sails of the yachts and other sail vessels. As the president's boat passed each squadron the salute was given by dipping colors and blowing the steam whistles for half a minute. When the president had landed the fleets formed, all the larger vessels in single line and the smaller two abreast, made the East river circuit and then passing around the south end of Manhattan Island and up the Hudson to Fiftieth street, made a like circuit on both sides of that river.

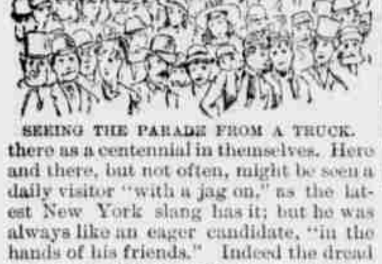
Meanwhile the president had descended from the vessel in East river into a barge manned by a crew of shipmasters from the Marine Society of the Port of New York, with Capt. Ambrose Snow as coxswain. The crew of the barge that rowed President Washington from Elizabethport to the foot of Wall street were members of the same society. Arriving at the foot of Wall street the president was received by the governor of the state, the mayor of the city and the committeemen named for the purpose, and the entire party, escorted by a military attachment, went to the Equitable building, where a reception took place; but owing to the narrowness of the streets there and the necessity of room for the military, comparatively few of the people could witness this part of the proceedings. The same must be said of the much discussed centennial ball of that evening and the banquet of the next evening, but after the official reception at the Equitable building, the great public was admitted, and for two hours passed in rapid march before the president, but with no shaking of hands. It was some consolation to the disappointed to know that there was no handshaking at Washington's reception in 1789, and that at least one in fifty of those who wanted to get near the president succeeded in doing so.

All this time the crowd in the city was rapidly growing and the enthusiasm mounting upward. It is supposed that half a million people entered the city for the three days, filling every hotel and lodging house, and through all the morning hours of the three days the rapidly succeeding trains coming in on all the roads were jammed with people from a circuit of a hundred miles or more around—people who preferred to go home each evening—and all overflowing with the wildest enthusiasm. Sightseers who visited the main depots at the early and late hours describe the scenes there as a centennial in themselves. Here and there, but not often, might be seen a daily visitor "with a jag on," as the latest New York slang has it; but he was always like an eager candidate, "in the hands of his friends." Indeed the dread of being robbed, with a preliminary "slugging," which is always prevalent among rural visitors to the great city in crowding times, proved a very wholesome fear indeed; the most reckless youth from the village took care to keep his wits about him and did not "indulge," unless perfectly certain of having sober friends about him.



SEEING THE PARADE FROM A TRUCK.

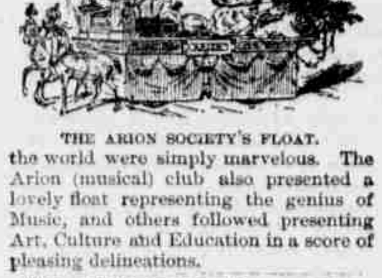
Of the many methods of witnessing the parades, columns might be written. The long rows of seats rising one above another in all the vacant places were of course filled early. Housetops were in demand, and convenient windows commanded almost fabulous prices. Every commanding point was covered, and the owners of trucks who could locate them well reaped a rich harvest. Indeed, a stout truck gave just about the right elevation, and to visitors who did not mind standing "on a strain" for a few hours it was a fine point of view. Despite all these contrivances, it must be admitted that very many failed to get a view of the processions; for the three cities turned out at least a million and a half of spectators, and certainly over half a million more came from elsewhere.

The number of troops in the great march of April 30 may be set in round numbers at 60,000. The cadets from West Point and Annapolis, the regular army and navy (all those under the direct command of Maj. Gen. John M. Schofield, chief marshal of the day), the militia sent by each state, ranged in the order in which the states ratified the constitution or were admitted to the Union, the military order of the Loyal Legion and many posts of the Grand Army of the Republic. Now, as this army began its march up Broadway from the junction of Wall street just as the literary exercises at the south end of the sub-treasury (the site of old Federal hall) began, there occurred the first hitch in the proceedings. The president and all his official retainers, the orator of the day, Hon. Chauncey Depew, and perhaps a hundred others, had to finish their work there and then make the race through the back streets to get to the reviewing stand at Madison square by the time the head of the column reached it. This they did through the immense crowds that thronged the eastern part of the city.

And as to the literary exercises, the great event of the day, the oration of Depew, the invocation of Storrs, the benediction of Archbishop Corrigan and the short address of the president, it is not easy now to find any who witnessed them. The streets contiguous to the place would hold, perhaps, one in fifty of the sightseers then in the city, and the people preferred to take their chance of seeing the great procession anyhow. Its route was up Broadway to Waverley place, through Waverley place to Fifth avenue, and up that to Fifty-seventh street, the grand reviewing stand being on the east side of Fifth avenue, on Madison square.

Equally interesting to all the people, and far more so to the student of history, was the great industrial and civic parade on Wednesday under command of Maj. Gen. Daniel Butterfield. This moved down Broadway from Fifty-seventh street. It were vain to attempt to give even the slightest outline of the many descriptive and historical floats and barges, the groups representing the arrival of the Dutch early in the Seventeenth century, the aborigines of New York, the early pioneer days, the scenes and heroes of the revolution and all the dramatic features of progress from the day when Manhattan Island was the hunting ground of Tamanenda's Indians to this age of steel and steam and continent girdling lines of wire and rail.

The rest of the nation was equally well represented, and besides the indices of national progress, the corn, the coal, the iron and the native precious ores, there were fitting emblems of the nation's higher glory: Statues and living figures presenting Liberty, Justice and Fraternity, Columbia, Victory, Education, Religion and all the virtues that make a nation truly great. In the line of purely emblematic or mythologic display, however, the Germans seemed to take the lead; their representations of Germany's contribution to the intellectual wealth of the world were simply marvelous. The Arion (musical) club also presented a lovely float representing the genius of Music, and others followed presenting Art, Culture and Education in a score of pleasing delineations.



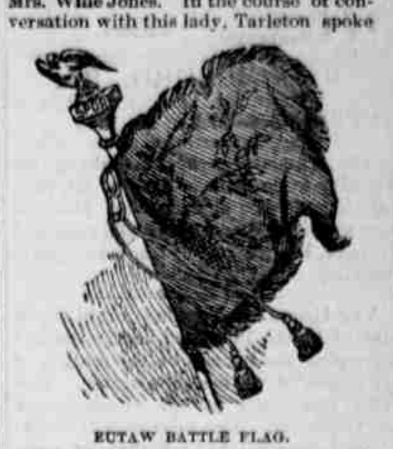
THE ARION SOCIETY'S FLOAT.

The purely emblematic representations, however, were but a small part of the general affair, for the people had an opportunity to see much of the reality of America's history—the veteran generals of the late war and the relics of former wars. Among many objects of interesting historic association, not the least interesting was the old "Eutaw flag," carried in the military parade by the Washington light infantry, of Charleston, S. C. This is the famous flag of Col. William Washington's regiment of cavalry, which, in the troublous times of the Revolution, constituted a part of the partisan corps of Marion. It belongs to the Washington light infantry, of Charleston, to which company it was presented by Mrs. Washington in 1827, with the understanding that it should always be preserved in memory of her gallant husband.

Col. William Washington, or as he was called, "The Modern Marcellus," was the oldest son of Baily Washington, of Stafford county, Va., where he was born in February, 1752. He was educated for the church, but the war led him into a public field. Entering the army, he engaged in the battle near Brooklyn, and afterwards distinguished himself at Trenton and Princeton. In 1779 he joined the army under Lincoln in South Carolina, and was active in the command of a light corps in the neighborhood of Charleston. Subsequently, he became attached to the division of Gen. Morgan, and bravely fought with that officer at the Cowpens. For his valor on that occasion congress presented him with a medal. Subsequently, he fought with magnificent courage and against heavy odds at Guilford court house and Hobkirk's hill, near Camden, S. C. It was at Eutaw, however, that he exhibited signal valor, fighting until wounded, and with his horse shot under him he was forced to surrender as a prisoner.

It was during the battle at Cowpens that Washington and Tarleton, the commander of the British cavalry, had a personal conflict. In the eagerness of his pursuit of that officer, Washington had got far ahead of his squadron, when Tarleton and two of his aids turned upon him. An officer on Tarleton's right was about to strike Washington when a sergeant interposed. Tarleton, who was in the midst of the melee, then made a thrust at Washington which the latter parried, wounding his antagonist in the hand. Tarleton then wheeled and discharged a pistol, by which Washington was wounded in the knee.

In connection with this wound, the following incident is related: When Cornwallis and his army were at Halifax, N. C., on their way to Virginia, Tarleton made his quarters in the house of Mrs. Wilie Jones. In the course of conversation with this lady, Tarleton spoke of Col. Washington as an illiterate fellow who was hardly able to write his name. "You ought to know better than that," was the reply, "for you bear on your person proof that he knows how to make his mark."



EUTAW BATTLE FLAG.

On another occasion, Tarleton was speaking sarcastically of Washington in the presence of Mrs. Ashe, a sister of the lady above named. "I should be happy to see Col. Washington," he said with a sneer. Mrs. Ashe instantly replied, "If you had looked behind you, Col. Tarleton, at the battle of Cowpens, you would have enjoyed that pleasure." Stung with this keen wit, Tarleton placed his hand on his sword, whereupon Gen. Leslie, of the British army, who was present, gallantly remarked, "Say what you please, Mrs. Ashe, Col. Tarleton knows better than to insult a lady in my presence." (The foregoing incidents are recorded in Mrs. Ellet's "Women of the Revolution.")

During the Revolutionary war Col. Washington met and became enamored of Miss Jane Elliott, of Charleston, a relative of that Gen. Stephen Elliott who defended the debris of Fort Sumpter after it was reduced to ruins. In their love making she proposed to furnish him a flag for his cavalry regiment, and having no other material, she improvised one by cutting out from a rich drawing room chair the crimson brocade adorning the back of it, which had the merit of being distinct in color as well as handy in size. To Washington it was a gift without price, and thereafter until the close of the war, it waved in the forefront of every battle in which his command was engaged.

In 1827 Mrs. Washington presented her husband's battle flag to the Washington light infantry, of Charleston, and the venerated relic is probably the only one that can be traced to the battle fields of the American revolution in the custody of a military corps. Having been in existence for nearly a century, and showing many signs of wear, it was quilted in 1874 upon a similar piece of crimson silk, in order that it might be preserved, if possible, for another hundred years. It is mounted in the Roman style.

Surmounting the staff is the eagle with wings plumed for flight; below, are cord and tassels of gold bullion. The flag is displayed on the 22d of February (Washington's birthday), and the 28th of June (the anniversary of the battle of Fort Moultrie on that date in 1776), but it is otherwise not used except by special orders.

It is not invidious to give a full account of this one relic of Revolutionary times, not only because it is interesting in itself, but because it will serve as a type of many interesting objects.

An American Ornithologist.

America's greatest ornithologist, John James Audubon, was the son of a French naval officer, and was born on a Louisiana plantation on the 4th of May, 1780, and died in the city of New York on Jan. 27, 1851. His fondness for birds led him to keep many as pets, and to make drawings which exhibited great talent. He was on this account sent to France, where he received instructions from the celebrated painter, David. Returning to America in 1797, he settled on a farm on the Schuylkill and gave his whole attention to the study of birds. Unfortunately a large collection of carefully executed designs were destroyed by mice. In 1810 Audubon removed to Kentucky, where he met the Scotch ornithologist, Alexander Wilson, with whom he made his journeys through the wilderness. Soon after he visited the bayous of Florida and gathered with his rifle and pencil much valuable material. Audubon returned to Philadelphia in 1824 to arrange for the publication of the fruits of his researches, and in 1826 went to London and Paris for the same purpose. Of the 177 subscribers to his work on the "Birds of America," at $1,000 per copy, one-half was taken in England and France. He was enthusiastically received by the leading scientists of both countries. A second edition of this work in seven volumes appeared in 1844. Audubon's death prevented his completion of the "Quadrupeds of America," a task, however, which was finished by his sons.—Philadelphia Times.

The Ruling Passion.

Talking about negroes reminds me of a story of a well known traveling man whose fondness for jokes is liable to get him into trouble some time. When he stops at a strange hotel he usually places a half dollar under his glass where his sable attendant is sure to see it. He is bound to get the best attendance, and sometimes there seems to be a mad race among the waiters when their eyes catch sight of the coin. You can just imagine their disgust when he gets through to see him calmly lift his glass and replace the half dollar in his pocket.

I sat at the same table with him in a hotel once, and for some reason we could not attract the attention of a waiter. "I'll catch 'em," said he, as he took several dice from his pocket and shaking them in his hands threw them on the table. It was hardly a second before the table was crowded with waiters, nearly every one in the room being attracted by the sound of the ivories. "I thought it would fetch them," said he, as we gave our order. "It never fails, and I'll guarantee if we begin shaking 'craps' nobody else in the room can get waited on. Dice have the greatest fascination in the world for a darky."—Buffalo News.

Emotion Expressed by the Toes.

I have recently noted a rather amusing detail in the classic costumes worn at the Comedie Francaise. Most of the actors and actresses who play the parts of personages of ancient Greece or Rome do not wear divided stockings under their sandals, after the style in vogue on the stage in England and America. With due regard to realism, the sandal is laced on the bare foot of the performer, which is made up accordingly with as much care as are his or her hands, being whitened and having the nails delicately tinted and the sides shaded with rouge. It was rather comical to see Mounet-Sully in the scenes of strong emotion in "Œdipe Roi" wriggle his great toes in accordance with his agitation, and also to notice how pretty Mlle. Dumesnil, in the role of the Priestess, curled up the extremities of her dainty little feet as she descended the staircase. I suppose we all act in the same way under similar circumstances, only not visibly. It is like seeing a young lady make a courtesy in a page's dress—one can observe exactly how it is done.—Lucy Hooper's Paris Letter.

BLOOMSBURG, PA.

FRIDAY, MAY 10, 1889.

The legislature at Harrisburg on Tuesday attempted to pass a bill prohibiting the sale of liquor on Decoration day. The vote was 102 yeas and 73 nays, lacking one of a constitutional majority.

The House on Tuesday night by a vote of 116 to 73 passed finally the bill increasing the salaries of the Judges of the courts of the commonwealth. The bill is now ready for the signature of the Governor. The salaries will be increased from $4000 to $5000 per year; except in cities of the first class where it will be increased to $6000. The bill was a republican measure and nearly all republicans voted for it. Representatives Fox and Krickbaum voted against the bill.

Senator Gobin, of Lebanon, who is a republican, said that the passage of the Judges' bill was the most infamous piece of legislation ever enacted by the Pennsylvania legislature, and that if he were a democrat he would want nothing better nor stronger to secure the defeat of the republican party this fall.

The House at its session Tuesday afternoon passed finally the following bills which originated in the Senate: Authorizing county commissioners to employ detective officers and pay rewards for the detection, arrest and conviction of felons; to regulate the employment of women and children in mercantile industries and manufacturing establishments, and to provide for the appointment of inspectors to enforce the same; providing that after publication of description of names or marks impressed upon bottles intended for the sale of beverages or other articles of merchandise the same may be registered in the office of the secretary of the commonwealth, and declaring what shall be conclusive evidence of such publication and registration; to provide for the recovery of the bodies of workmen enclosed, buried or entombed in coal mines; providing that any surface owner of land or coal shall have the right to inspect mine maps; to authorize the election of assessors in the several boroughs and townships of this commonwealth for three years.

James R. Young, the Washington correspondent of the Philadelphia Evening Star, has the following strong sentences regarding the effects of intemperance. Years of residence in Washington have given him unusual opportunities to observe the facts on which his statements are based:

"In the almost a quarter of a century I have been out in the world plodding my way I have seen many splendid fellows, some of them near and dear friends, fall by the wayside, vanish from existence, the victims of the cursed habit of drink. I have seen rich men become poor; men of fine intellect become inmates of the insane asylum; refined and accomplished men reduced to wearing rags, taken to the police court and sent to the workhouse—all arising from the liquor habit. I have seen liquor turn men of genial and sunny temperaments into being brutes, blackguards of the worst order. I have seen refined and sensitive women, driven by the last extremity of poverty brought on them by the liquor habit of their husbands, compelled to go out into the world to ask from their friends aid for themselves and children. I could write page after page of personal experiences on the subject."

NEGLIGENCE SOMEWHERE

SIX HUNDRED DOLLARS ROAD DAMAGES GO BY DEFAULT.

On Monday morning Judge Ikeler read an opinion in court in the matter of the road in Benton township near J. J Karns. On February 10, 1888 a petition was filed asking for the appointment of viewers of a road to begin in a public road in Benton and to end at the Fair Ground gates. Viewers were appointed and all the proceedings went on regularly and the viewers awarded Dr. Colley $210, and the heirs of R. L. F. Colley $400. Ezra Stephens, one of the commissioners was present at the view. Sept 24, 1888 the report was confirmed. December 29, an order to open was issued, and the supervisors opened the road to public use, whereupon the Colleys demanded their money, and then it was that the county commissioners awoke to the situation, and consulted their attorney, who obtained a rule to show cause why the confirmation should not be stricken off and all proceedings set aside. It was in this matter that the opinion was filed. The court says:

"Upon careful examination of the facts shown by the depositions and records in this case, we are constrained to say that it is one of a number of road cases, and by far too great a number, where the county has been made to succumb to gross imposition and private gain of land owners who desire a road laid out and opened so that it will be largely beneficial and convenient to themselves, making their adjoining lands more saleable and valuable, and yet they seem to have such influence and control over the proceedings as to get enormous and unreasonable damages in proportion to the land taken and the advantages derived, and thus the county made to suffer payment thereof.

I this case then depositions, surveys and plot of lands of R. L. F. Colley show that, the fields and farm land not built upon, surrounding and adjoining this road, were run off and cut into thirty building lots by the owner; and the identical ground over which this road was laid, thirty feet wide and for which $400.00 damages is claimed and allowed for 37 rods of land was run off by R. L. F. Colley, the owner, in his lifetime 64 feet wide.

His son Greely Colley, another landowner, also claiming and allowed $210 damages for 13 rods of land, is a prime mover in the proceedings, getting the order from the clerk and placing it in hands of supervisors, to have the road opened and thereupon demanding his damages from the County Treasury.

To prevent excessive and unreasonable damages being thus obtained and recovered from the County, His Honor Judge Elwell, made the cautionary and judicious order, that in all cases of road views at least one of the County Commissioners, should have from the viewers, no less than five days previous notice.

It seems that in this case the required notice according to the rule was given and one of the County Commissioners was present at the view, and all proceedings were allowed to go on without cavil or objection until after the road had been opened and demanded by heirs of R. L. F. Colley and Greely Colley upon the County Commissioners for an order upon the County Treasurer in payment of their damages for the land taken and appropriated by the laying out of said road.

Then perhaps for the first time advising with their attorney, come their petition upon which this rule issued and which we would like to make absolute, but fail to find either law or facts sufficient to warrant us in so doing."

The clear intimation is that if the commissioners had been diligent in their duty and taken an appeal, that these excessive damages would have been cut down greatly, or not awarded at all.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

From our Regular Correspondent.)

Washington, May 6, 1889

Ex-President Cleveland's celebrated seal brown carriage horses together with his carriages, harness etc. were sold to-day at auction. When Mr. Cleveland left here he had not decided whether he would sell them or carry them to New York. The prices realized were satisfactory.

The Pacific coast has captured the biggest thing yet given out by the present administration. It is the contract to build the mammoth armored coast defense vessel that was provided for by the last Congress, which has been awarded by the Navy Department to the Union iron works of San Francisco. Ex-Secretary Whitney is entitled to the credit of having made it possible to build such a vessel on the Pacific coast by the recognition he gave to the enterprise of the California capitalists that established this plant for the building of iron and steel vessels. The price of the new vessel is to be $1,928,000.

"When the cat's away the mice will play." John Sherman has gone to Europe and the Foraker wing of the republican party of Ohio, with Foraker at the head, has swooped down on Washington to see what Harrison can be coaxed or bull-dozed into giving them. John Sherman has by his selfishness committed political suicide. He got two or three offices for his own personal favorites but he has made enemies of the entire Ohio Congressional delegation thereby. Representatives Butterworth and McKinley have long been able lieutenants of Sherman's but now they train with the Foraker crowd, with whom they have made a league, offensive and defensive; and unless the signs are greatly at fault John Sherman is now serving his last term in the Senate.

The United States officials that went into the land-grabbing business in Oklahoma have been called upon to explain their actions to the Interior Department.

Ex-Senator Mahone is still here. He made another piteous appeal to Harrison last week and as a result he was allowed to name the United States District Attorney for the eastern district of Virginia. There was quite a howl from the anti Mahone Virginia republicans. Let'em howl.

Among the few appointments that Harrison has found time to make since his return from the New York celebration was that of his brother, Carter B. Harrison, to be United States Marshall for the middle district of Tennessee. If Mr. Cleveland had appointed his brother to a position every republican editor in the country would have roared for months, but they will discreetly overlook this little bit of nepotism. Verily it does make a difference whose ox is gored.

Army courts seem to have rather queer ideas in regard to making the "punishment fit the crime."

Maj. Lydecker, who was the engineer in charge of the Washington aqueduct tunnel has been found guilty by a court martial on several counts of having neglected his duty as an official etc. And the said neglect has cost a million dollars that have been spent on the tunnel which has now been abandoned. Pretty serious crime one would think and deserving of severe punishment. What does the Court Martial say? That Major Lydecker shall be fined $100, per month for nine months and be reprimanded in general orders. Could anything be more ludicrous. An officer by neglect and carelessness sacrifices $1,000,000 and deprives a city of a much needed increase of water supply, and is fined $900 therefor. Reader perhaps you may wonder why this sentence was made so light. It can be answered in two words, social influence which is the strongest of all powers in Washington.

Senator Gorman it is generally thought will succeed the late W. H. Barnum as chairman of the democratic national committee.

Republican office seekers say that President Harrison has as much trouble to arrive at a definite decision as to making an appointment as did the hungry ass that fable says starved to death between two bundles of hay because he could not decide which to go to.

According to Senator Ingalls, President Harrison will call an extra session of Congress to meet early in October in order to get the House organized and in working order before the Christmas recess. Ingalls speaks as though the matter had been definitely settled by the President.

The Legislature.

On Thursday next at noon the Pennsylvania state legislature will adjourn finally and in a short time the law makers, who have been with us for the past four months, will return home and the wheels of the commonwealth will proceed to revolve as they did before the "model" members came.

A retrospective glance at the work done and left undone by the Republican legislature of 1889 must bring about the conclusion that the great mass of people of the state will not shed tears of regret that the session is drawing to a close. Although the grand old party, for instance, claims to be the tried and true friend of the workingman, it is safe to say that never in the history of the commonwealth has the interest of labor received as many blows as were dealt it by the representatives who will take their leave on Thursday.

They have put themselves on record as being opposed to ballot reform and anti-discrimination; they have throttled the granger bill to equalize taxation and have killed with the party club Farrell's company store bill, the semi-monthly pay bill, Caffrey's dockage bill, which was intended to prevent the miners from being robbed by unfair dockage, and several other measures the passage of which would have materially benefitted the interest of labor. It must certainly be plain to every intelligent workingman that the wage-worker need not look to the republican party for relief.—Patriot

Forest Fires in Michigan.

THE LARGER PORTION OF SULLIVAN BURNS. MANY FAMILIES HOMELESS.

Detriot, Mich., May 8.—A special from Sullivan, Mich., says: Forest fires ignited this town yesterday noon and burned the larger portion of it. Twenty-five families are rendered homeless and destitute. Grand Rapids sent an engine that worked all last night to save the Sullivan Lumber Company's mill. One hundred persons were fed and sheltered at Ravenna, a village five miles distant. The stores and railroad depot were saved. The losses aggregate $26,500

East Saginaw, Mich., May 8.—Reports of the destruction of property by fires in the woods still come in. The weather yesterday was a repetition of former days, the thermometer registering eighty degrees in the shade. The air is thick with smoke. In the township of Kawkawlin, Bay County, five farms have been burned over and everything inflammable destroyed. It is also feared that a number of schoolhouses in remote districts have been burned. Rust Brothers & Co of this city have lost crops, equipage and half a million feet of logs, valued at $6,000, near Alger, and highway bridges in that section have been added to the immense bonfire. The upper branch of Tittabawsee River, the Au Gres, the Rifle and other streams are at so low a stage that logs burn even in the beds of streams.

Chippewa Falls, Wis., May 8—Reports reached here last evening from the town of Cleveland in this county, to the effect that the woods in that section are all on fire. Four farm houses, with their barns and contents were burned. There is a great quantity of standing pine in that vicinity, and it is feared that it will all be destroyed.

Frankfort, Mich., May 8.—Forest fires are raging on every side. Much fencing and many buildings are being destroyed, but no loss of life is reported.

Frederick T. Roberts, M. D., Physician to and Professor of Clinical Medicine at University College Hospital, "London, Eng., says: Bright's Disease has no symptoms of its own, and may long exist without the knowledge of the patient or practitioner, as no pain will be felt in the kidneys or that vicinity." This accounts for many people dying with Bright's Disease, or advanced kidney malady. The disease is not suspected until it reaches the fatal period. If Warner's Safe Cure is used at the proper time, the fatality from that disease would be greatly decreased. Dr. Thompson also says: "More adults are carried off in this country by chronic kidney disease than by any one maiady except consumption."

Look Out For a Big Storm.

The Weather Bureau at Washington predicts that a large and vigorous storm, at present centering in the West, is coming East. "It will be a heavy Spring storm," said Sergt. Dunn, "and comes directly from the west where it covers an enormous area. Its preliminaries will be warm and humid weather, followed by a rapidly falling barometer and gales from the east to southeast. It will be the worst storm we have had for some time. Its force is at present working in the west, but the effects will soon be felt here. Western barometers in some localities have fallen as low as 28.90 degrees. An odd feature of the storm is the unusually high temperature attending it. In Montana the temperature was 70 degrees. Hail and winds that at times attain a velocity of fifty miles an hour are coming with the storm." The Washington bureau will order the coast signals to be displayed at the first fall of the barometer.

Verily, do we live in a progressive age. Following in the wake of "progressive luncheons" and "progressive dinners" and "progressive card parties," we have now "progressive conversation assemblages." A programme, arranged like a dance card, is provided; the topics to be discussed are numbered upon it. Engagements are made previously and entered on the card, for the discussion of each topic, to which a stipulated number of minutes is allowed. At the tingle of a bell, subject and partner are both changed.—May Table Talk.

Salt Rheum

The agonies of those who suffer from severe salt rheum are indescribable. The cleansing, healing, purifying influences of Hood's Sarsaparilla are unequalled by any other medicine.

"I take pleasure in recommending Hood's Sarsaparilla, for it has done wonders for me. I had salt rheum very severely, affecting me over nearly my entire body. Only those who have suffered from this disease in its worst form can imagine the extent of my affliction. I tried many medicines, but failed to receive benefit until I took Hood's Sarsaparilla. Then the disease began to subside, the disappeared, and now I am entirely free from the disease. My blood seems to be thoroughly purified, and my general health is greatly benefited." Lyman Allen, Sexton N. E. Church, North Chicago, Ill.

"My son had salt rheum on his hands and the calves of his legs, so bad that they would crack open and bleed. He took Hood's Sarsaparilla and is entirely cured." J. B. Stanton, Mt. Vernon, Ohio.

From 108 to 135

"I was seriously troubled with salt rheum for three years, and receiving no benefit from medical treatment I decided to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. I am now entirely cured of salt rheum; my weight has increased from 108 lbs. to 135." Mrs. Alice Smith, Stamford, Conn.

If you suffer from salt rheum, or any blood disease, try Hood's Sarsaparilla. It has cured many others, and will cure you.

ORDINANCE NO. 44.

An Ordinance, to permit The Bloomsburg Belt Railroad Company to occupy a portion of Seventh street for railroad purposes.

Whereas, Th Bloomsburg Belt Railroad Company, as appears by Letters Patent, exhibited, bearing date the twenty-eighth day of January, 1889 became an incorporated company, under articles of Association declaring that; "The road of the company is to be constructed within the corporate limits of the Town of Bloomsburg, from a point near the intersection of the Bloomsburg and Sullivan Railroad Company's tracks, with the tracks of the Delaware Lackawanna and Western Railroad company, eastwardly to and upon Seventh street to East street, thence by the most eligible route to and about the furnace of William Neal & Sons, and westwardly therefrom to the canal wharves late of the Bloomsburg Iron Company, and to the place of beginning, and to be of a length of two miles"; and

Whereas, The said, The Bloomsburg Belt Railroad Company, has requested permission to locate construct, establish and use a railroad in persuance of the charter of the said company, upon Seventh street; and also a large number of property owners on said Seventh street have requested in behalf of the said Company, the same permission therefore:

Section 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the Town Council of the Town of Bloomsburg, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by authority of the same, that the Bloomsburg Belt Railroad Company be, and is hereby permitted to locate, construct, establish and use a railroad, of single track upon Seventh street, from the west side of Market street to the east side of East street, at or about the southwest corner of the property owned by Harman & Hassert, at or near the intersection of said East street with the Berwick road: Provided, that such track shall be laid at the grade of the said Seventh street, and that the said railroad shall be located and constructed to the satisfaction and acceptance of the Engineer and Surveyor of the Town of Bloomsburg, and in such manner as not to obstruct in its maintenance and use said Seventh street, as a public highway, except so much as is actually necessary for the reasonable and proper location, construction, and use of the said railroad.

Section 2. That The Bloomsburg Belt Railroad Company shall locate, construct and maintain the railroad in all its parts at the crossings of streets or other highways, at such grade as shall be fixed by the Town Council, and to the satisfaction and acceptance of the Engineer and Surveyor of the Town of Bloomsburg so as not to interfere with the use of all such streets and highways as public highways, except so much as is actually necessary for the reasonable and proper location, construction and use of the said railroad

Section 3. That The Bloomsburg Belt Railroad Company shall so construct the railroad as that Seventh street and all streets and highways upon which it is constructed, or which it crosses, shall be free and clear for public use as public highways and thoroughfares, and by said company shall be so kept and maintained, except so far as the same may be obstructed in the reasonable and proper location, construction and use of the said railroad.

Section 4. That the said railroad shall be operated and managed that there shall be no unjust discrimination in freight or charges, and that under just and equitable conditions there shall be afforded opportunity of connection by switches or otherwise with other railroad companies, and individuals owning property or conducting works, along the line thereof.

Section 5. That The Bloomsburg Belt Railroad Company, its successors, lessees, or others operating the railroad shall submit to and observe all legal and reasonable municipal regulations which may be at any time made with reference to speed of trains, gates, flagmen, &c.

Section 6. That nothing in this ordinance contained shall be construed in any manner to affect the rights of individuals or others as to damages by reason of the location, construction, maintenance and use of the said railroad, and that the said, The Bloomsburg Belt Railroad Company, its successors, lessees or others owning or operating the said railroad and structures in good order and condition, and save the Town of Bloomsburg harmless, so far as the said town may be liable therefor, from any responsibility or liability whatever, that may grow out of the location, construction, maintenance and use of the said railroad.

Section 7. This ordinance shall not be of force until it shall be certified to the Bloomsburg Belt Railroad Company, and by said company accepted and approved, and such acceptance and approval certified to the Town Council.

Passed at a meeting of the Town Council, held Mar. 15, 1889.

Samuel Neyhard, Secretary. P. S. Harman, President.

To the Town Council of the Town of Bloomsburg.

Gentlemen:—At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Bloomsburg Belt Railroad Company held 7th May 1889, the provisions of ordinance No. 44 were accepted and approved.

Long-Standing

Blood Diseases are cured by the persevering use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

This medicine is an Alterative, and causes a radical change in the system. The process, in some cases, may not be quite so rapid as in others; but, with persistence, the result is certain. Read these testimonials:—

"For two years I suffered from a severe pain in my right side, and had other troubles caused by a torpid liver and dyspepsia. After giving several medicines a fair trial without a cure, I began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I was greatly benefited by the first bottle, and after taking five bottles I was completely cured."—John W. Benson, 70 Lawrence st., Lowell, Mass.

Last May a large carbuncle broke out on my arm. The usual remedies had no effect and I was confined to my bed for eight weeks. A friend induced me to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Less than three bottles healed the sore. In all my experience with medicine, I never saw more Wonderful Results.

Another marked effect of the use of this medicine was the strengthening of my sight."—Mrs. Carrie Adams, Holly Springs, Texas.

"I had a dry scaly humor for years, and suffered terribly; and, as my brother and sister were similarly afflicted, I presume the malady is hereditary. Last winter, Dr. Tyron, (of Fernandina, Fla.,) recommended me to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and continue it for a year. For five months I took it daily. I have not had a blemish upon my body for the last three months."—T. E. Wiley, 146 Chambers st., New York City.

"Last fall and winter I was troubled with a dull, heavy pain in my side. I did not notice it much at first, but it gradually grew worse until it became almost unbearable. During the latter part of this time, disorders of the stomach and liver increased my troubles. I began taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and, after faithfully continuing the use of this medicine for some months, the pain disappeared and I was completely cured."—Mrs. Augusta A. Furbush, Haverhill, Mass.

PROPOSALS FOR HIGH SCHOOL BUILDING.

Sealed proposals, endorsed "Proposals for High School Building" will be received up to May 18, 1889—12 o'clock, noon, for the grading of ground, material and erection of the Bloomsburg High School building. Plans and specifications can be seen at the office of the Secretary in Moyers' Building. All bids to be addressed to the Secretary. Payment to be made monthly as the material is furnished or work done upon the estimate of the architect, twenty per cent. to be reserved until final completion of the work and until the building is accepted by the board.

Each proposal must be accompanied with a bond in the sum of $12,000.00 with approved security for the faithful completion of the work according to the specifications and plans and the completion of the building not later than Sept. 1, 1889 and to forfeit $10.00 per day for each and every day over and beyond the above specified time. Unless a proposal is accompanied with a bond as above set forth the same will not be considered. The Board reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

W. H. BROOKE & CO.

The fine weather in April has brought up the carpets, and house cleaning has begun in earnest.

Right at this point let us say, that the walls and ceilings of the cleaned room will need papering, we are well fixed to show a fine line of plain and ornamental ceiling decorations as you might wish to see.

Last week and this week have been red letter days for wall paper and window curtains.

We have a window full of dado curtains, and more patterns inside which we can't show. We trim square and hem curtains any length; you select the shades we make the curtains and hang them without extra charge.

AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION

proposed to the citizens of this Commonwealth by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, for their approval or rejection at a special election to be held June 18, 1889. Published by order of the Secretary of the Commonwealth, in pursuance of Article XVIII of the Constitution.

Joint resolution proposing an amendment to the Constitution of this Commonwealth:

Section 1. Be it resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, That the following amendment is proposed to the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, in accordance with the Eighteenth Article thereof:

AMENDMENT.

There shall be an additional article to said Constitution to be designated as Article XIX, as follows:

ARTICLE XIX.

The manufacture, sale, or keeping for sale of intoxicating liquor, to be used as a beverage, is hereby prohibited, and any violation of this prohibition shall be a misdemeanor, punishable as shall be provided by law.

The manufacture, sale, or keeping for sale of intoxicating liquor for other purposes than as a beverage may be allowed in such manner only as may be prescribed by law. The General Assembly shall, at the first session succeeding the adoption of this article of the Constitution, enact laws with adequate penalties for its enforcement.

The Bloomsburg & Sullivan Railroad Company have secured plenty of passenger cars to accommodate all who wish to attend the Barnum & Bailey show, Saturday, May 11th. There will be three (3) sections of the early morning train, all reaching Bloomsburg in time for the parade, so that every person will be cared for, so far as transportation facilities go.

There will probably be an extra train leave Bloomsburg for Jamison City about 5:30 p. m.

THE late Dr. Dio Lewis, in speaking of Warner's Safe Cure, said, over his own signature: "If I found myself the victim of a serious kidney trouble, I would use Warner's Safe Cure." He also said "The medical profession stands dazed and helpless in the presence of more than one kidney malady."

On Barnum's day, hot coffee and lunch will be served at Phillips'.

A Modern Samson.

A wonderfully strong man is C. Samson, almost if not equally as strong as his Biblical namesake. Incredible as it may appear, it is an actual fact that this modern Samson breaks with ease heavy steel chains link by link by simply pulling apart the links with his naked hands. He also bends iron bars over two inches thick by striking them over his forearm, and, what is still more strange, steel chains one quarter of an inch in thickness are burst asunder like paper twine when placed around the biceps muscle of his arm, the only effort required to break the chains being a simple upward motion of the arm causing the muscle to expand, when, presto! the chain is broken in pieces. He is one of the many new attractions with Barnum & Bailey's Greatest Show on Earth, which comes here on May 11th, 1889.

Rheumatism is caused by an acid in the blood; therefore, external treatment affords no permanent relief. To eliminate the poison and make a thorough cure of the disease, nothing else is so efficient as Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Give it a trial. Price $1. Worth $5 a bottle.

Death of Thos. Creveling.

Thomas Creveling died at his home near Espy Saturday of last week, May 4th, aged 66 years, 6 months and 12 days. Mr. Creveling had always enjoyed good health until a few years ago he complained of stomach troubles. Last winter he had an attack of paralysis, and Monday, April 29th he had another attack, when he was confined to his bed, and gradually grew worse until death closed his sufferings. Thirty years ago under the pastorate of Rev. E. A. Sharretts at the Lutheran church in Bloomsburg, Mr. Creveling became a member, and closely adhered to the vows then made. For many years he was one of the officers of the church at Espy. In his death the church has lost one of its best and most consistent members, and the community a valuable friend and citizen. One brother, Harman Creveling, who is now quite ill with heart disease, is the only surviving member of a family of 3 daughters and two sons.

Funeral services were held at the house Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock, attended by a vast throng of friends. Interment in Afton cemetery.

Up the Creek.

Those who for many years past have been the patrons of the popular fishing resorts at the head waters of Fishingcreek in Columbia and Sullivan counties, and who have not been up there within the past two years, would scarcely recognize the surroundings were they to return there now. Instead of a long dusty drive of thirty miles from Bloomsburg, one takes the train on the Bloomsburg & Sullivan road, and in an hour and a half he reaches Central. Here he finds accommodations at E. P. Albertson's Central Hotel, and from there he can fish on either the east or west branch of the creek. Or, if he wants to go further up the west branch, J. W. Perry, landlord of the Elk Run Hotel, two miles above Central, will meet him at the Central station.

From Central up the east branch to what has been familiarly known as 'Billy Cole's' for many years was a public road two or three miles long, with a very few houses here and there. The country was wild and primitive, while all around the peaks and ridges of the North Mountain reared their heads hundreds of feet above. But on these mountains, rugged and steep, there grew thousands of acres of timber, untouched by the axe, because of the want of facilities for getting it to market. It was this timber that invited the invasion of capitalists, and to-day the wild scenery of the past is broken by the hum of industry. On what was known as the Hess farm stands Jameson City, whose entire growth has been within the past year. Here is the extensive saw mill of the Fishingcreek Lumber Company, owned by Col. Corcoran, Thomas Wheeler and others, the saw mills, of Dr. Edwards, and Hartman & Long, the planing mill of P. J. Sult, the hub factory of Sherwood, Royall & Co, C. Stiltz & Co. have a large stock of general merchandise in their fine building near the depot. Other business places are James Dewitt, meat market, R. J. Force, store, B. D. Cole, store, John Bush, restaurant and store, C. R. Richard, furniture and merchandise and undertaking, Frank Myers blacksmith, Lloyd Kelchner, barber, John Wynn, birch distiller, Jacob Bender, blacksmith. Numerous dwelling houses have been erected, and others are in course of construction. Building lots are for sale by A. L. Fritz Esq., Col. J. Jameson of Bloomsburg, or by C. Stiltz & Co. at Jameson City.

On the side hill at an elevation of sixty feet above the town stands an imposing four story structure just approaching completion. It is the hotel of the Manor Rest Inn Company, intended as a summer resort and to be open all the year. It is of modern architecture, and of convenient arrangement internally, and will no doubt become a popular resort. It is expected that the house will be open before June 1.

Jameson City is growing, and with the large number of of men to be employed in the woods and at the mills, its population will soon reach many hundreds. A large tannery and other industries are in contemplation.

Ayer's Hair Vigor restores natural color to the hair, by stimulating a healthy action of the scalp. This preparation also produces a vigorous growth of the hair, and gives it a beautiful lustre and youthful appearance. Recommended by physicians, clergymen, and scientists.

The Greatest Show on Earth.

WILD MOORISH CARAVAN, BLACK ILLUSION TENT, PARIS OLYMPIA HIPPODROME, HORSE FAIR, TRIPLE CIRCUS, ETC., ETC.

The birthplace of Barnum & Bailey's Greatest Show on Earth is the city of New York, where the business offices are located from November to May of each year. The winter quarters are at Bridgeport, Conn. Mr. J. A. Bailey is at the head of the New York business office and Mr. Barnum has under his eye the winter quarters; thus the equal partners together control the whole mammoth enterprise, which involves a daily expense of $6,800 and represents a capital invested of $3,000,000. There are established permanent agencies in nearly all the large cities of the old world; through the efforts of the agents located there are procured all the foreign features and wonders annually exhibited in this country. The chief European attractions with the shows this year are the real wild Moorish Caravan, the black canvas tent of living supernatural illusions, the troupe of Royal Japanese experts, the trained imperial stallions, the Paris Olympia Hippodrome, and many male and female equestrians of great renown. The Moorish Caravan is without doubt one of the most magnificent spectacles ever seen, and comprises Moors, Bedouins, Arabs, Soudanese, and other representatives of the wandering Sahara desert tribes, who are accompanied by their harems, slaves, attendants, negroes, bewitching dancing girls, tents of animal skins, weapons of war and the chase, accoutrements, domestic utensils, elegant picturesque costumes, and their real fleet-footed Arabian horses. The entertainment afforded by these people is of a really grand and instructive character, giving Christian communities their first glimpses of how these strange and wandering people have existed in their desert homes for 2,000, years resisting all efforts of the missionaries to civilize or convert them. In the black tent a gallery of 40 beautiful, chaste, living supernatural illusions are exhibited of so wonderful and novel a kind as to astonish all beholders. The Paris Olympia Hippodrome with its myriad of thrilling and exciting races, contests, and wonderful trained animals is a never ceasing source of great interest. There are 15 new united shows in one this year, composed of the foregoing, a triple circus in 3 rings, elevated stages, two monster menageries, 380 horses in the horse fair, aviary, aquarium, museum of wonders, etc. etc., 300 performers, 125 acts, the biggest tents, more of their own railroad cars, trained animals, birds, reptiles, etc., than ever before. All tents remain up until 9 p. m., and the night performances are just the same as those of the afternoon. The great street parade with $1,500,000 worth of objects will take place at 9 o'clock a. m. on May 11th.

Duties of Constables.

As the constables were called in court on Monday morning, they were directed to take seats in the Grand Jury box, and when they were all seated Judge Ikeler addressed them as follows:

GENTLEMEN, This being the first session of the Court since your election we take this opportunity to say to you, that, by an Act of Assembly passed by the present Legislature of our State and approved by the Governor on the 14th day of February last, it is generally understood that you have been elected for the period of three years inasmuch as the township elections were held on the 19th day of February following the approval of the law, although we think neither the voters nor yourselves generally so understood it. Under this view of the situation we deem it proper to address a few words to you as constables elected for the period of three years.

The recent statutes of our State enlarging the jurisdiction of Justices of the peace, and making almost an entire change in our liquor license laws; enlarging your duties greatly in both civil and criminal process and proceedings, so at this time we deem it not out of place to direct your special attention to your powers and duties in certain cases. As conservators of the peace, for all breaches of the peace committed in your presence, you are authorized and required to arrest the offenders without warrant; for past offenses your power to arrest without warrant, is limited to felony, upon reasonable grounds of suspicion, and for the purpose of making such arrest, you may and it is your duty without warrant to break open doors, always taking the precaution first to demand entrance. If you have good strong reason to believe a felony, or an affray is pending you have a right, after first demanding entrance, to break into a house to prevent it. As a peace officer it is your duty to ferret out crime; it may be distasteful to you, and would be considered impertinent and officious on the part of a private person, but dutiful and meritorious on your part. With or without a warrant it is your duty to seize, secure and remove, any device, or machinery, of any kind, character or description, whatsoever used and employed for the purpose of unlawful gaming or gambling and to arrest, without warrant, any person setting up the same, and make return to the next Court of Quarter Sessions, setting forth the nature and description of the device or machine so seized upon and the time, place and circumstances.

You are to report all disturbances at any election held within your district.

You are to report all bawdy, or tippling and disorderly houses, the names of the owners, lessees and keepers thereof, with the names of the witnesses, by whom the same may be proved.

Under our present license law, an exceedingly strict one, and one which entitles those to whom the court has granted licenses, to receive, at your hands, such assistance as will aid them in complying with its provisions, and prevent their being injured in their business by persons selling without a license, and otherwise directly violating the law. Licensees pay a high price for the privilege of selling liquors and are placed under great care and responsibility. The law requires each constable in his district, at least once a month to visit all places where liquors are sold or kept and ascertain whether any of the provisions relating to the sale or furnishing of liquors have been, or are being violated.

It is therefore your duty to visit all hotels, drug and apothecary stores, wholesale and retail liquor stores, distilleries, breweries and bottling establishments, and find out and report anyone selling within your district without a license.

And at hotels ascertain whether the license is properly framed, liquor sold on election day, or on Sunday, to a minor, to a person of intemperate habits, or to one visibly affected by intoxicating drinks, for his or her use, or for the use of any other persons, or sold or furnished on a pass book, or order on a store, or on any goods, wares, merchandise or provisions, and whether gambling is permitted or practiced, or the law violated in any other way.

Have they been, or are druggists and apothecaries selling upon the written prescription of regularly registered and practicing physicians? And only once to the same person on the same prescription? and are any physicians prescribing any intoxicating liquors as a beverage to a person or persons of known intemperate habits?

Have they been, or are rectifiers, compounders, wholesale dealers, store keepers, agents or bottlers selling in less quantities than a quart? Have, or are bottlers allowing it after sale to be drank upon the premises, or at a place provided by him for that purpose?

Have they been, or are brewers, distillers and manufacturers selling in quantities less than one gallon?

These and questions in reference to the condition of roads, bridges and index boards, &c,, it is our special duty to require you to answer and return to this court and if such answers and returns shall be wilfully or negligently omitted, or false, to suspend you from office and direct the District Attorney to indict and try you for the same and if found guilty to impose a fine not exceeding $500, and imprisonment not exceeding two years, or both, or either, at the discretion of the Court.

For your special services under the license laws, the Supreme Court has recently decided that you are not entitled to extra pay. There is however a bill now pending before the Legislature of the State, providing compensation to you for such service and should, if such duties are considered wise and to continue to be enforced, unhesitatingly receive the approval of all concerned. However, you have accepted the office with its present emoluments and obligations and will no doubt take pleasure in making a full, faithful and honest return.

This the law demands of us to require and of you to make, and to each and all it should afford pleasure to faithfully perform.

Now, under the law, can it be possible, in towns such as we have in this county, for a gambling place, or a bawdy house to exist and become the street rumor of a town or village, and the constable of the district or town, be so ignorant of the fact that he cannot return them? Would it not be because he should not desire to interfere? Would it not be because he should not endeavor to know of them, or because he would make no effort to ferret them out? And if not, would he be diligently and faithfully discharging his duties?

If in the future any or either of your returns shall be found to be wilfully and negligently false and any or either of you shall be brought before this Court to suffer the penalties which the law inflicts for doing, or omitting to do, what it so plainly and positively demands, we shall feel that we have done our duty toward instructing you in the right way and you cannot reasonably say that you were not sufficiently informed.

We demand of you diligence and care, and expect and will be thankful to receive from you in the future, full, correct and true reports.

Honest.

In these days of adulteration and fraud, in all branches of business and pursuits, it is pleasing to know that there is one medicine prepared which is strictly pure. Such a medicine is Sulphur Bitters in curing scrofula; you can depend on them every time. W. B. EVARTS, A. M., Charleston S. C.

Important to Railroad Men.

A. E. Smith has been for forty-nine years road master on the Boston and Maine system, and is now residing at Great Falls, N. H. He says trackmen, brakemen, firemen, engineers and conductors, as well as baggage masters and expressmen, are subject to kidney disease above all others. All, therefore, will be interested in the statement of his experience. "I have used Brown's Sarsaparilla for kidney and liver troubles, and can truly say it has done more for me than all the doctors I ever employed, and I have had occasion to require the services of the best physicians in the State. My wife also has been greatly benefited by its use.

A. E. SMITH,
Road Master B. & M. R. R."

The kidneys have been labored hard all winter as the pores of the skin have been closed, but now the springtime has come, and they need, some aid. Maybe you have that pain across the back; that tired feeling; those drawing down pains. If so, you can get immediate relief by following the example of Mr. Smith and his wife, and use that never failing and grand corrector for the kidneys, liver and blood,

WANAMAKER'S.

PHILADELPHIA, Monday, May 6, 1889.

Out of town friends can get Catalogue No. 26 for the present Spring and Summer by a request sent through the mail, and by the same means "A Short descriptive List of Books at Wanamaker prices" may also be had.

A suggestive bit about Ginghams, snipped from the Evening Telegraph:

> "There is said to be quite a fad for Ginghams for use at country resorts during the Summer. Many women are having as many as fifteen or twenty dresses made up of these cheap but pretty goods for such wear."

No wonder. A sensible stuff and pretty. The marvel is how the loom-men get so many beautiful patterns. We've more than a thousand distinct styles of Ginghams—the best of Scotland and New England—the cheapest in Philadelphia.

We are quite willing to tell you that it is our command of the German market that strengthens our grip on the Linen trade. The cheaper grades of Damask Table Linens, with which we have been ignoring competition all the season, are German. In the high grades Dresden and Belfast are rivals—we will make you happy with either.

Our Linen stock brings business to this market. Distant hotels and transportation companies come to us for Linen supplies, and they come for the reason recognized by customers and would-be competitors alike —competition with our Linens is useless.

72-inch German Double Damask, 60c. The usual price is $1.10.

That's a fair sample of what we are doing in such Linens.

Turkey Red Table Cloths, all sizes, Doilies to match, $1.25 to $2.75 each. Turkey Red Table Damask by the yard, 35 to 90c.

Two Towels will tell their tale as well as fifty. (1) Excellent Huck, 20x38 inches, 12½c. (2) Knotted Fringe Damask, pink and blue borders, 21x42 inches, 22c.

Black looped edge ribbon, equally desirable for hats or dresses. We have a corner on it—but the bears make the prices—half:

1½ inch, 12c.
2½ inch, 15c
2½ inch, 20c
3½ inch, 30c

Fancy Ribbons at 25c. worth 50. Colors enough to tire, but choice enough to please, and cheap enough to charm.

Sashes—fringed—now at the popular zenith:

9 inches wide, 4 yards long surah, $4
15 inches wide, 4½ yards long, satin, $6.75

150 feet of counter space for Ribbons, 100 more for flowers.

Little handy nothings of leather or make-believe leather, full of tools for the toilet, and next to nothing to pay. Here's one of sole leather, telescope shape, comb and 3 brushes—hair, nail, tooth—85c. We never before had anything nearly so good for so little. Others up to $3.30.

Dressing Cases, various leathers, $1.20 to $12.60.

Collar and Cuff boxes, sole leather, fancy leathers, and plush, $1 to $8.

The newest wrinkle is Collar and Cuff Box, combined with Dressing Case, fancy and sole leathers, $2.10 to $3.20.

Leatherette Music Rolls, 40c; leather, 65c to $3.75.

Triplicate Mirrors that give a fore and aft view of self, $4.50 to $6.50. Our special patterns, two oxidized sides.

BOOK NEWS for May is ready, with a spirited picture of Count Tolstoi—one of the most talked about of modern writers.

Whoever wants to get an inkling of books as they come from the press—hint enough to guess from whether to read or not—needs BOOK NEWS. It is made for just such people. It is eyes for them. It does the rummaging and leaf-turning and weighing of worth for them. What it tells is as a book-wise friend would tell it. No prejudices. It don't so much try to say whether the book is positively to be approved as to say just what the book is. One person may condemn that which another will praise. From what BOOK NEWS tells you'll know whether the book will be bad or good to you.

Medical Monopoly Not Wanted.

Boston Daily Globe, Feb. 7th, '89

"In the Legislature of Massachusetts a bill is now pending whose object is to prohibit, under penalty of fine and imprisonment, the practice of "medicine, surgery or midwifery" by any other than the "regular" physicians. The attempt to pass such a bill has been made before, but it failed. It is a measure which ought not to pass, because it invades the personal liberty of the citizen; not the personal liberty of the 'irregular' physician only but of the patient.

"Only yesterday Dr. Holt, in a paper read before the Massachusetts Medico-Legal Society, an organization of "regular" physicians, complained of the ignorance of his professional brethern as shown in the notorious Robison poisoning cases.

"This crime," said the doctor, "one of the greatest in our medical history, would never have been discovered but for the suspicions aroused outside the profession." And he called attention to the fact that in five of the poisoning cases the regular physicians certified the cause of death to be pneumonia, typhoid fever, meningitis, bowel disease and Bright's disease respectively.

"This shows how far the 'regular' physicians are from being infallible.

"It would seem to be more in accordance with justice and common sense were they to perfect their own knowledge before they appeal to law to prohibit others from healing.

"Not long ago a Globe reporter called upon ten "regular" physicians on the same day, and described his symptoms in exactly the same language to each. The ten physicians informed him that he was suffering from ten different diseases and gave him ten different prescriptions, each utterly inconsistent with the others.

"The implied claim that there is any certainty in "regular" medicine as at present practiced, is absurd. All medical practice, outside of the simplest complaints, is more or less guesswork and experiment, whether regular or irregular.

"When Garfield was shot five of the most famous regular physicians in the country spent three months probing for the bullet in the region of his left hip, and after his death it was found under his right shoulder-blade." We have but a word to add, which is that the above is the doctrine Messrs. H. H. Warner & Co., proprietors of Warner's Safe Cure, have fought for and promulgated for the past ten years. We know of scores of cases, and so does the reader, where doctors have treated the wrong disease. They say advanced Kidney Disease cannot be cured, yet thousands of cases have beenn cured with Warner's Safe Cure; yet so bigoted are the medical profession that the majority of them will not use it, although they know they could thereby save many valuable lives, because, forsooth, it is against their fossilized code. Out upon such bigotry. Every method to prolong life should be utilized, and the regular medical profession should be the first to welcome it instead of encompassing themselves in self-conceit and bigotry, doctoring symptoms instead of disease, and sending their patients to the cemetry, poisoned with drugs, but on the death certificate that they died from typhoid fever, meningitis, pneumonia, or some other equally foreign cause.

Good Friday Eggs.

PUT ONE AWAY NEXT YEAR AND THEN SEE WHAT WILL HAPPEN.

From the St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

"It is a singular fact," said a lady yesterday, "that a hen's eggs which is laid on Good Friday will never spoil like any other, but may be kept for years, and when opened will be found to contain only a small, yellowish-brown lump, resembling beeswax." And getting up she went to a bracket-shelf and took from a little vase an egg which was marked with indelible ink "Good Friday, 1882," and asked the reporter to examine it. It looked a little old, was very light and had an oily feeling, but that was all that could be noticed different from any other. Then, taking a little pearl paper knife from the table the lady broke the shell and, as she had said, it only contained the little waxy lump that she flattened on the end of a spool and dropped in her work-basket. She chatted on about it, saying:

"The way I happened to know about it, my mother was in New Orleans some years ago on a visit and someone told her of it. She only laughed at the idea, but when she returned home during Holy Week that year she said: 'You must all gather some fresh eggs on Good Friday and try it, just for fun.' We did and several years after broke them and all were the same as this one. I don't pretend to give any reason for it, but know it is so."

Prohibition.

EDITORS COLUMBIAN:

The articles of A. J. Derr only inspire indignation in the heart of every lover of true reform in his production of holy writ in justification of the unholy and wicked traffic which is productive only of criminality and crime in all their various forms and hideousness. The papers daily bear tidings of the ravages of this demon in the most shocking manner from almost all localities of this our beloved land. The news of its depredation is revolting, and appalling to our moving senses. The highest type of manhood it seeks to drag down to the lowest depths of human degradation. It debauches morals and corrupts the ballot. It perverts judgment and defeats the ends of justice. "O Virtue": "thou art a jewel" embodied in "personal liberty." But why not called by the proper names—personal libertine. "O Shame! where is thy blush?" O Maiden where is thy hope? O voter what is thy duty. Save the young and rising generation and rescue it rom the liquor demon; for it is within your power now. I refer your readers to the 13th chapter of Revelations and ask the question whether the times to which John the Divine refers "are not upon us now?" "If not, I pity the generation upon which they shall fall."

At weddings among Germans in the southern colonies 150 years ago the groomsmen attended in their beautiful embroidered white aprons. If any one succeeded in capturing it the groomsman paid a bottle of wine for the loss, as the bride's dancing depended upon it.

The king of Wurtemburg has a fancy to ascertain whether the moon is inhabited by causing photographs to be taken of that luminary and then magnifying the negative a hundred thousand fold. The pictures produced by this process show nebulæ with little dots, and the king declares the dots to be men and women. He hopes eventually to get some of them into distinct shape.

A floating island is said to exist on Henry's Lake, Idaho. It is about three hundred feet in diameter, and is erratic in its travels, frequently, though, going with the wind, which catches in the trees and thereby carries it along. In Brazil there is a tribe called Cafusos, which has sprung into existence by marriage between the long, stiff haired natives and the imported negro slaves. At the royal powder factory of Wetteren, in Belgium, a new gunpowder is being made. They call it poudrepapier or paper powder, and it is said that a charge of two and a half grammes (thirty-nine grains) gives, in a rifle of small caliber, an initial velocity of 660 yards to the ball. This is equal to, if it does not beat, the Lebel powder. The additional advantages are attributed to it of not smearing the barrel, or producing no smoke and of causing no recoil.

Holsworthy, a village of England, is all excitement over a ghastly light which every night intermittently flashes across a railroad cutting. From dusk to midnight the village station is thronged with people anxious to obtain a glimpse of the light. Nothing Like Praise.

MANY A CHILD IS HEART HUNGRY FOR A WORD OF ENCOURAGEMENT.

From Good Words.

Parents are too often slow to see the motive of the children's kindest actions. A little fellow has been reading of some young hero who helped his father and mother in all sorts of ways, and after racking his brains to think how he, too, can help, he remembers that he can fetch his father's slippers, and take his boots away and put them in the proper place. Without saying a word to anybody, when evening comes he does it; but the father is so occupied that he notices not what the boy has done. The little fellow hopes on, thinking that when he goes to bed his father will say how pleased he was to see Charley so willing to help; but not a word is uttered, and the boy goes up to bed with a choking feeling in his throat, and says his prayers by the bedside with a sadness very real in his heart.

Parents often complain of children not being so ready to help as they should be; the fault is with the parents, who have not known how to evoke feelings with which the heart of every child is richly stored. All words of approval are helpful and encouraging. In a large family there have been days of anxiety and care. The eldest daughter by her skill in teaching has earned a little extra money, and without a word to any one she lays nearly all of it out in buying things that are much needed in the house. What joy fills her heart when a fond mother takes her aside, and with emotions that can not be concealed says how thankful she is for such considerate kindness, and murmurs: "I don't know what we should do without you, darling." My friends, do not be so chary of these words of encouragement.

Food Adulteration.

The question of Food Adulteration is now occupying public attention more than ever before, and organizations are being formed in almost every state to prevent the sale of adulterated food or drink. The following letter voluntarily given, speaks volumes for the purity of Speer's Port Grape Wine:

N. Y., June 3, 1884.

MR. ALFRED SPEER, Passaic, N. J.

Dear Sir: The result of my investigation of your Wines convinces me that they are perfectly pure and free from foreign or deleterious substances. The best I have ever tasted, and is all that can be desired in a pure Port Wine. The Unfermented is especially nourishing, and where the action of alcohol is not required it is well adapted for Invalids. I speak as a physician. Your Pedro Brandy fills a want long felt in the profession, for pure brandy can only be obtained with great difficulty.

RHEUMATISM

For More than Twenty-five Years.—A Complete Recovery.—The Means Used.

I had Inflammatory Rheumatism. For nearly a year I had to be fed and turned in bed. I could find no relief. My stomach was ruined and cut to pieces with powerful medicines taken to effect a cure so that I was compelled to live on bread and water. I suffered for twenty-five years in this way. I was induced to try Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, made at Rondout, N. Y., and thanks to this medicine. Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy is my best friend. With it I am enabled to enjoy a good night's rest. Also food, such as meat and pastry, which I have been deprived of for years, showing that the Favorite Remedy has no equal for the cure of Indigestion and Dyspepsia as well. If any should doubt this statement I will send the ready proof at once.—Garrett Lansing, Troy, N. Y.

It is my pleasure and absolute duty toward those who are struggling for very life against the deadly to add my testimony to the already weighty evidence of the wonderful efficacy of Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy. My wife was a hopeless case, abandoned by the physicians. Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy was resorted to; not because any hope was placed in it, but because nothing else remained. All means and medicines had been tested without avail. The effect was little short of a miracle. At the second bottle she had regained strength, and continuing the treatment has fully recovered.—Jay Sweet, Albany, N. Y.

Female friend—Young Smithers, who is paying you attentions, is one of the most promising young men in this city. Miss Lively—Yes, I know him. Female friend—He is ambitious, too. He is a man who will always aim higher than the mark. Miss Lively—Aim higher than the mark? Well, I don't know about that. He has never kissed me on the nose yet.

Hints That are Better than Gold.

If you have bad breath, sluggish bowels, pain in the small of your back, nervousness or gidddiness, your vital organs are sadly out of condition. A mere "dose of physic" will not help you. Your only wise course is to take Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy of Rondout, N. Y., and cleanse your system of the impurities. It regulates the liver and kidneys. 4 26-4t

Mr. De Prig (of Boston)—Did not Elsmere strike you as a weak, vacillating creature, whose doubts formed the "winter of his discontent," which finally led to the belief that overcame him "like a summer cloud!" Miss Cod (of Kansas City)—Yes, indeed. I've always said Elsmere was a chump.

"Tired all the time."

Say many poor men and women, who seem overworked, or are debilitated by change of season, climate or life. If you could read the hundreds of letters praising Hood's Sarsaparilla which comes from people whom it has restored to health, you would be convinced of its merits. As this is impossible, why not try Hood's Sarsaparilla your self and thus realize its benefit? It will tone and build up your system, give you a good appetite, overcome that tired feeling and make you feel, as one woman expresses it, "like a new creature."

Fenderson (rising to go, after talking incessantly ever since his arrival)—Really! I didn't think it was so late! I have enjoyed the evening immensely. Miss Frankley—O, thank you. Mr. Fendesson; but then, it don't make any difference where you go, you are always sure of enjoying yourself.

Robert A. Gunn, M. D., Dean and Professor of Surgery of the United States Medical College, Editor of the "Medical Tribune," author of "Gunn's New Improved Handbook of Hygiene and Domestic Medicine," says over his own signature in addressing the proprietors of Warner's Safe Cure: "I cannot be true to my convictions unless I extend a helping hand and endorse all that is good and trustworthy. Your graphic description of diseases of the kidneys and liver have awakened the medical profession to their great increase. Physicians have been experimentally treating this disease, and while casting about for a remedy, their patients have died on their hands."

Lady—Biddy, have you seen the little stuffed bird I had in my bonnet?

Biddy—Yis, mum: I put it in the soup to make it a little richer.

CATARRH,

Catarrhal Deafness and Hay Fever.

A NEW HOME TREATMENT.

Sufferers are not generally aware that these diseases are contagious, or that they are due to the presence of living parasites in the lining membrane of the nose and eustachian tubes. Microscopic research, however, has proved this to be a fact and the result is that a simple remedy has been formulated whereby catarrh, catarrhal deafness and hay fever are permanently cured in from one to three simple applications made at home by the patient once in two weeks. N. B.—For catarrhal discharges peculiar to females (whites) this remedy is a specific. A pamphlet explaining this new treatment is sent on receipt of ten cents by A. H. DIXON & SON, 304 West King St., Toronto, Canada.—Scientific American.

Sufferers from catarrhal troubles should read the above carefully.

The Swift Specific Co., Atlanta, Ga.:

Gentlemen—Seven years ago I contracted an exceedingly bad case of blood poison. I tried a physician, the best at command, but secured no benefit. My throat began to get sore, and my body covered with sores and ulcers. Going from bad to worse, I felt that my grave must be reached in the near future. I gave up the doctors' treatment, and with a despairing hope I commenced taking your medicine. I began to improve from the first bottle, and in a short time the ulcers healed, and my skin cleared off and was entirely well.

One year ago a case of catarrh developed in my system. The physician did his best, but could not cure me; but two bottles of Swift's Specific gave me permanent relief.

Spring Disorders

Shattered nerves, tired brain, impure blood, debilitated system, all are the natural outcome in the Spring. A medicine must be used, and nothing equals Paine's Celery Compound. We let others praise us—you cannot help believing a disinterested party.

Brigadier-General W. L. Greenleaf, Burlington, Vt., writes: "I have used Paine's Celery Compound on several occasions and always with benefit. Last spring, being very much run down and debilitated, I commenced taking it. Two bottles made me feel like a new man. As a general tonic and spring medicine I do not know of its equal."

"I have used two bottles of your Paine's Celery Compound, and it has given entire satisfaction as an appetizer and blood purifier." T. L. BERNER, Watertown, Dakota.

Paine's Celery Compound

is prescribed by physicians, recommended by druggists, endorsed by ministers, praised by users, and guaranteed by the manufacturers, as a spring medicine which will do all that is claimed for it. Use it this spring, and see how quickly it tones you up.

GRATEFUL—COMFORTING.

EPP'S COCOA.

BREAKFAST.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette. Made simply with boiling water or milk. Sold only in half pound tins, by Grocers, labelled thus:
